MONETARY TRENDS - SUMMARY

Currency in circulation (M0). The M0 covers the money outside the banking system, and it is calculated based only on the export and import of cash done by commercial banks and the BPK. Mainly as a result of the changeover to the euro, the year 2001 was characterized with a decrease on M0 at 31.6% compare to the year 2000, but right away after that the M0 records increasing trend, hence at the end of the year 2002 it amounted at €441.1 million or 20% higher compare to the end of the year 2001. The first half of the year 2003 is characterized with a decrease on M0, and this is due to the dominance of the export of cash over its import. This can be considered as a positive trend for the Kosovo's economy that is still an economy highly based on cash payments.

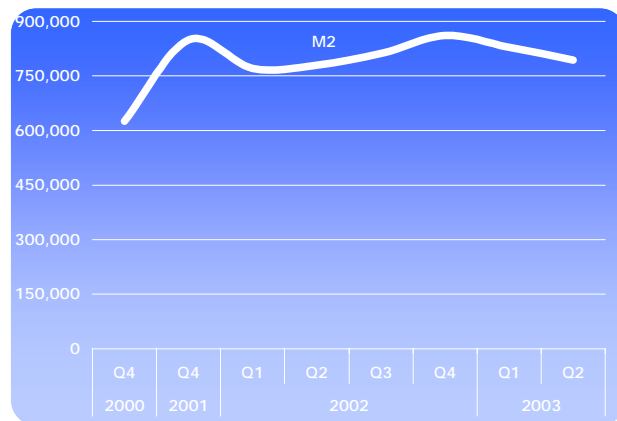

Money supply (M1). The M1 consists of monetary aggregate M0 added with the amount held by individuals and businesses at the current accounts of the commercial banks in Kosovo. With exception to the end of year 2001, where its trend has opposite direction compare to that of M0 -as a result of the changeover to the euro, the monetary aggregate M1 right away after that reflects almost the same trend with that of M0, as a result of irrelevant changes at the balance of current accounts.

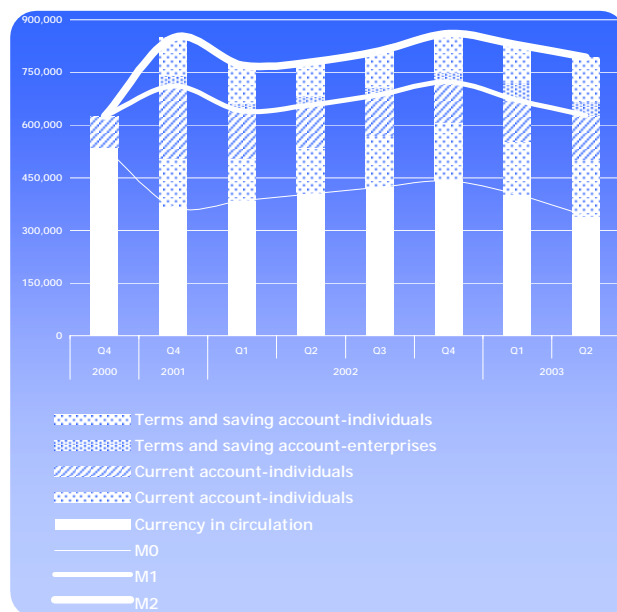

Money supply (M2). M2 consists of monetary aggregate M1 plus terms and saving accounts of the individuals and businesses at the commercial banks in Kosovo.

Consequently, M2 can be considered as appropriate definition of that what is called broad money. As a result of irrelevant changes at the terms and savings accounts of individuals and businesses, M2 aggregate shows almost the same development trend with that of M1.

Despite the unilateral euroization, as well as based on the IMF recommendations regarding the compilation of the Depository Corporation's Survey, the euro in Kosovo is classified as foreign asset. Therefore, the Depository Corporation's Survey, at the end of first half of year 2003, reflects such developments that have common denominator: increasing confidence in the economy and banks in Kosovo. This can be illustrated by the developments at the first half of year 2003 which are characterized with a permanent decrease of foreign assets (placements at the foreign banks), while at the same time there is recorded almost doubled amount of loans given to the private economy by commercial banks.
